Bamberger's SUPER-ROSES 69c each

BAMBERGER'S selects only the choicest bushes of the field to be called "Super-Roses." Each Rose must have four extra-heavy canes and a sound, clean root-growth; any sign of weakness in root or trunk means immediate discard! Early last fall we contracted for our share, so that we could be sure of having the best stock available. Every bush is guaranteed 2-year-old, eastern field-grown—which means it is ideally suited to thrive outdoors in New Jersey and adjacent climates.

How to PLANT ROSES —

Roses need sunshine, but it is not necessary that they be exposed to the sun all day; half a day of sunshine is sufficient, either morning or afternoon.

To prepare the beds, remove one spade depth of soil and pile it on one side. This is "topsoil." Then remove a second spade depth and pile it on the other side. This is "subsoil," to be taken away. This makes a trench 18 inches deep. Rose roots never go deeper. Break the bottom of the trench with a fork. Refill the trench with the topsoil, mixing it with a liberal amount of manure, then finish the bed with good garden soil.

When planting Roses, always carry the plants in a bucket of water. Prune the roots by shortening the long ones and making fresh cuts at the ends of the others. Dig a hole deep and wide enough to accommodate the roots naturally and without crowding. Work very fine soil between the roots and refill the hole a little at a time, always packing the soil hard on the roots. When the hole is three-quarters full, pound the soil with your heels and all your weight, then pour in plenty of water. When the water has disappeared, put soil in to the normal level, but do not pack any more. Prune the tops of the plants at about 4 to 5 inches above soil-level; this is extremely important. The proper depth of planting is so that the bud or union should be barely covered. (See marginal sketch.)
